Cleve West believes in creating conditions in which wildlife of all forms can flourish

Cleve West

clevewest.com

One of the most considered of designers, Cleve West takes on mainly private gardens for clients interested in managing their land in a sustainable way. 'We have to recalibrate our aesthetic expectations and I think the traditional herbaceous border has had its day,' he says. His 2023 Chelsea garden supports this view. Designed for the homeless charity Centrepoin, it is centred around a demolished house and shows how much biodiversity can arise even in poor conditions.
